Postponement of the 2016 Nittany Stage Race

State College, PA. Following a fast and furious first year the race's organizers have decided that the 2016 Nittany Stage Race will not be held. The 2015 event hosted three events over two days and attracted more than 200 cyclists to Centre County Pennsylvania.

The 2015 event was organized over a period of two years by members of the Penn State Cycling Club. With much of the Stage Race's leadership now alumni or graduating in May it has become difficult to fill key positions during a time when many students are not at the university. Adding to the personnel deficit race director Andrew Artz was hit by a car in early November forcing him to take the remaining semester off of school. Both Andrew and the Penn State Cycling Club are looking forward to the possibility of a race in 2017. In the meantime it is suggested that past participants look into the Tour De Millersburg and Mt. Davis Challenge both being held in Pennsylvania.

Although no race will be held in 2016, the Penn State Cycling Club will still aim to continue its success in the Eastern Collegiate Cycling Conference this March and April. The Penn State Cycling Club would like to thank all of its sponsors, supporters, and family. We look forward to seeing all of you this season and at future iterations of The Most Epic Race In Pennsylvania!
